"Tuliv Migraine Defense set me free from the control migraines had on my life." - Stacy McB

Tuliv Migraine Defense is an all natural anti-migraine formula for men, women, and children that is taken daily as a migraine preventative.

Necessity is the Mother of Invention

It was the life-saving necessity to eliminate the recurrence of chronic migraines that inspired a renowned research analyst to uncover the truth about migraines. In doing so, he did more than discover the true biological cause of migraines; he went on to develop the first natural anti-migraine formula that completely stopped and has continued to prevent the onset of migraines for his wife since February of 2004.

When word spread about his research and when others who tried the new formula had the same success, Lyle and Eileen Henry felt moved to make the formula available to all who needed their help and today thousands of men, women, and children enjoy a migraine-free life because of their work and the Tuliv Migraine Defense formula.

Eileen had suffered for more than 43 years with migraine headaches, including those with and without aura. Her headaches started early in life and kept getting worse over the years. After the age of forty the headaches became extremely painful daily chronic migraines and debilitating to the point where they completely controlled her life (a typical life pattern for chronic migraines in men and women alike).

No solution had ever been found to prevent her migraines in the countless pharmaceutical drugs she tried or through the migraine specialty clinics, doctors, chiropractors, and other practitioners who promised relief. Even the natural and therapeutic remedies were of no avail. Imitrex, Zomig, and other triptans became her daily crutch needed to survive.

Research to Eliminate Migraines

After years of research, Lyle formed the genetic-hormonal-migraine theory that noted the relationship between the hormones secreted by the pituitary gland and their use by specialized hormone production cells that carried a predictable migraine gene within their mitochondria as the problematic cause for initiating the onset of a migraine.

The Science. When these cells produce hormones within the body of a migraineur, they can release an undesired abundance of a natural substance called Nitric Oxide (NO). When NO combines with an amino acid called L-tyrosine, it produces the chemical CGRP involved in the expansion of the tiny blood vessels intertwined with the endings of a nerve on the outside of the brain called the trigeminal nerve. This nerve runs forward from the temples and branches out to behind the eyes and into the face along the jaw line.

As the blood vessels swell they put pressure on the surrounding nerve endings which pinches the nerve fibers. This is felt as the pain of a migraine headache. This same inflammation can put pressure on the backs of the eyes and especially on the sinus cavity behind the bridge of the nose, thus causing the pain and pressure that is often misdiagnosed as a sinus headache.

Putting an End to Migraines

Presenting his theory and soliciting the help of Dr. Coleman, a neuroendocrinologist from Harvard Medical Research, Lyle was able to discover a formula made from natural ingredients for the prevention of migraines. This formula, which is now known as Migraine Defense, broke Eileen's continuous cycle of migraines within the first month and brought a complete end to her four decades of migraine suffering.

Since February of 2004, Eileen has never had another migraine. Not one. Not ever.
